The Business Game

To us Business is the greatest of all games, perhaps because we don't have much time to play anything else, anyhow besides a living we get lots of fun out of what we are doing and try to play the game fairly and squarely.

As we see it, business should be played with the same fine sense of honor and honesty as obtained in any other game. We know no reason why in business the Golden rule should not govern as in other games and firmly believe our efforts to practice what we preach in all our dealings is what makes the game so fascinating.

> The announcement that North Central Washington apple growers will ples suggests the idea that southern sweet potato growers are sleeping on their rights. A carefully directed advertising campaign would put southern grown sweet potatoes in every home in the north, thereby creating a demand for the crop that would afford better prices and greatly increased consumption. Imagine if you can, a demonstration of southern sweet potatoes at some of the department store eating rooms in Chicago with the potatoes cooked southern style. A faste of this tempting dish would cause people in the north to throw away the dry and mealy New Jersey potatoes and place the southern potatoes very much in demand. But in our careless way we sell a few cars here and there without teaching the people how to prepare them for eating and the result is we have to seek new fields to sell the next car. There is more food value in a peck of southern sweet poels of the northern grown product. Let's begin to demonstrate this fact.

To us Business is the greatest of all games, perhaps because we don't have much time to play anything else, anyhow besides a living we get lots of fun out of what we are doing and try to play the game fairly and squarely.

As we see it, business should be played with the same fine sense of honor and honesty as obtained in any other game. We know no reason why in business the Golden rule should not govern as in other games and firmly believe our efforts to practice what we preach in all our dealings is what makes the game so fascinating.
